

HP Calculator News – November 6, 2007

1. Surveyors still use calculators and Professional Surveyor Magazine thinks the HP-35s is pretty nice. They are giving one away as described on the front inside cover (see figure two) of the inaugural Edition of their new Directory of survey equipment and services (see figure one). This directory may be read on line at:

<http://redigitaleditions.com/ActiveMagazine/getBook.asp?Path=PRS/2007/11/02&BookCollection=PRS&ReaderStyle=WithPDF>

If you haven't read a book or catalog on line this is a good example of how it is done. Go to the link above and explore how to turn the pages, search for things, and get the experience of the Internet simulating the reading of a "book."

2. Here is some additional HP calculator news. The HP33s and the HP35s are just approved for the 2008 NCEES FE/PE exam! This will be formally announced on November 15, 2007.

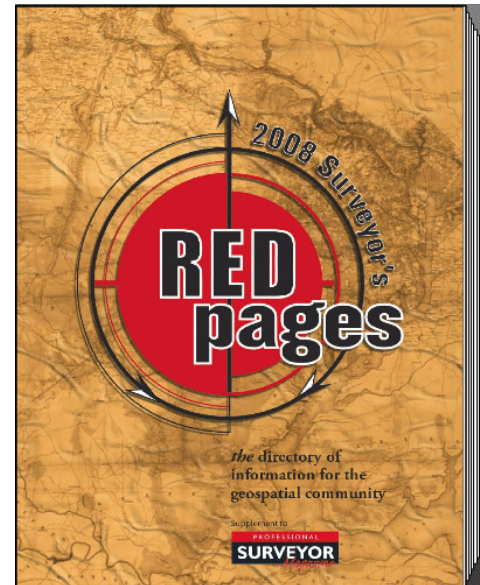

Fig. 1 – Cover of the new Professional Surveyor red pages.

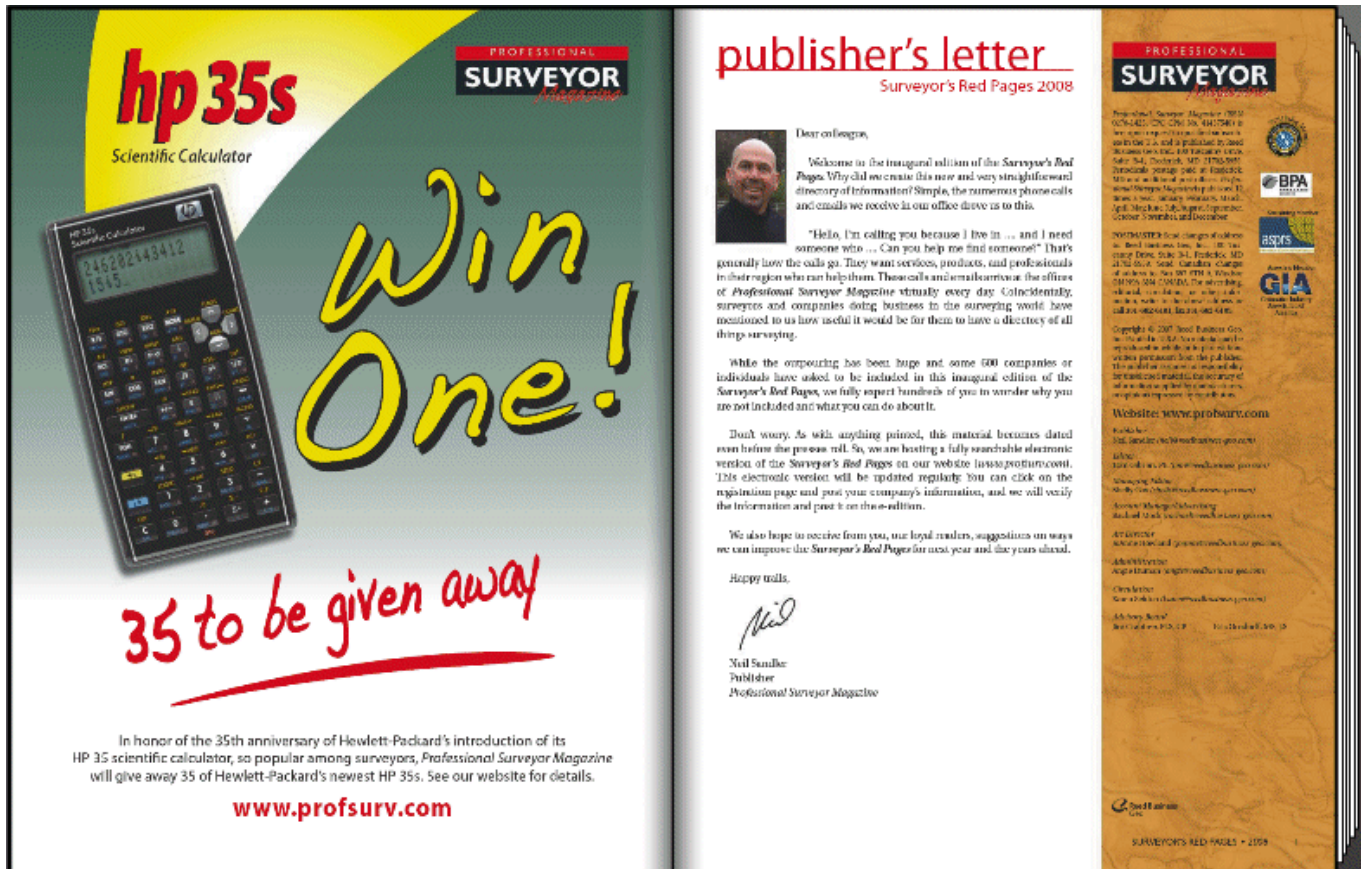

Fig. 2 – The HP35s is everywhere. You may win one if you go to: <http://www.profsurv.com/>.